

Stones, Tablets, & Texts

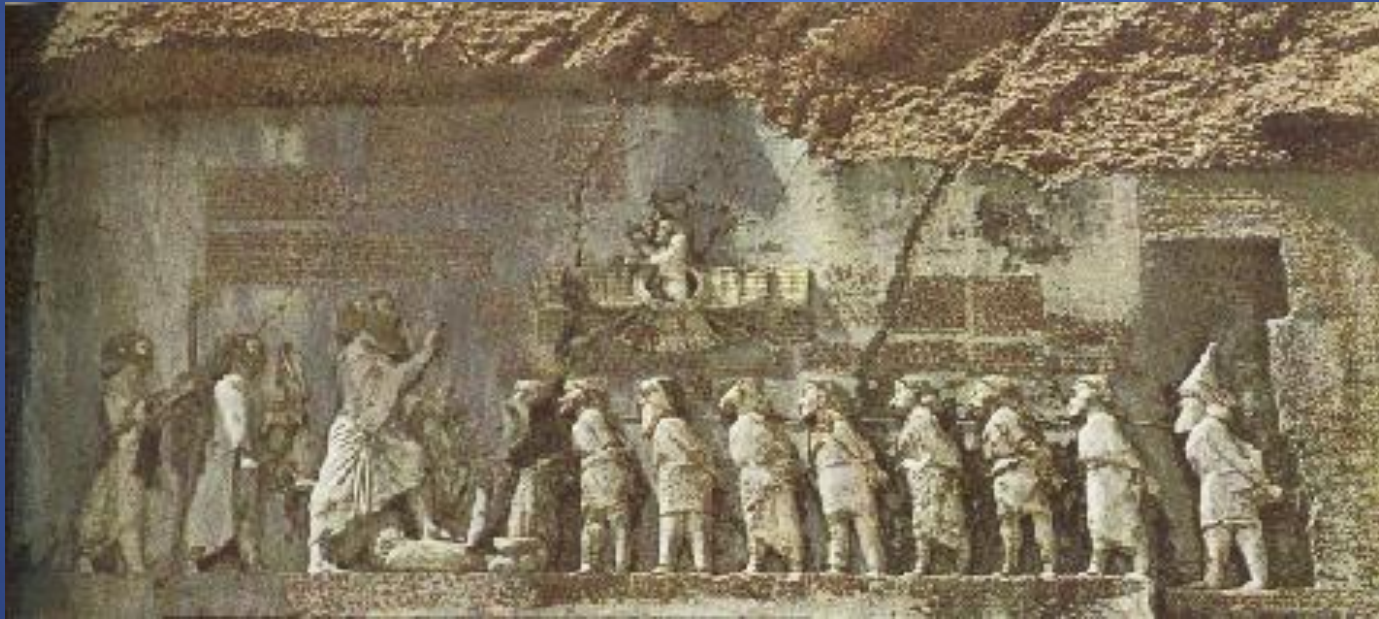

Intro to Bible,
Scripture 202
October 5, 2011

Where I got these

Most of what you are about to see were gained through a Google Search. Sources include:

- Wikipedia
- British Museum
- Israel Museum of the Book
- Other internet sources

Behistun Stone

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Behistun_Inscription

Rosetta Stone

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Rosetta_stone

Ugaritic texts

<http://phoenicia.org/ugarbibl.html>

Elba tablets

Mari Tablets

Nuzi Tablets

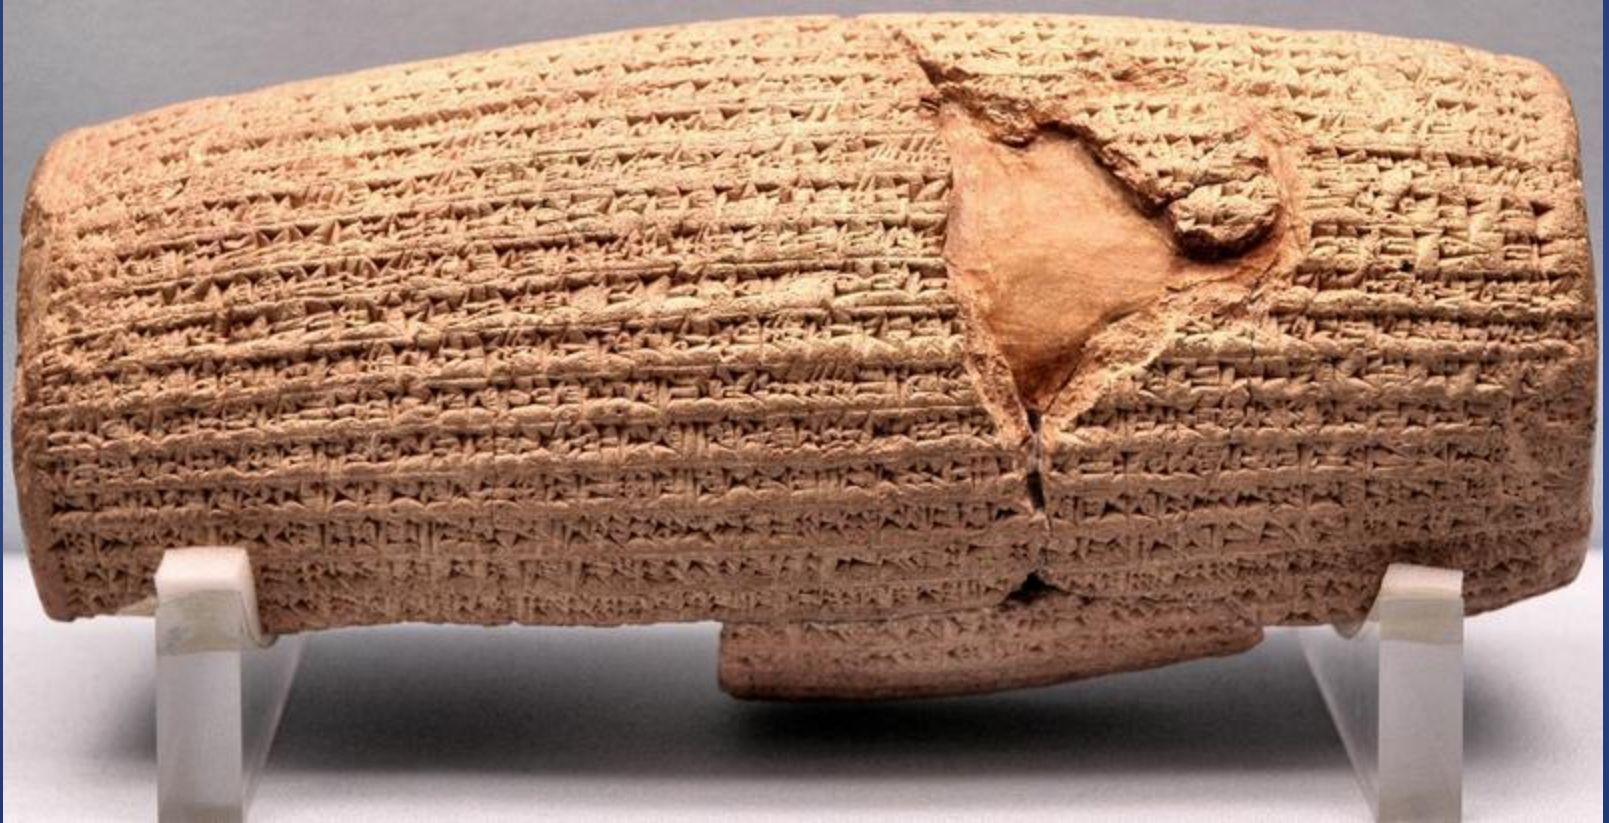

Black Obelisk of Shalmaneser

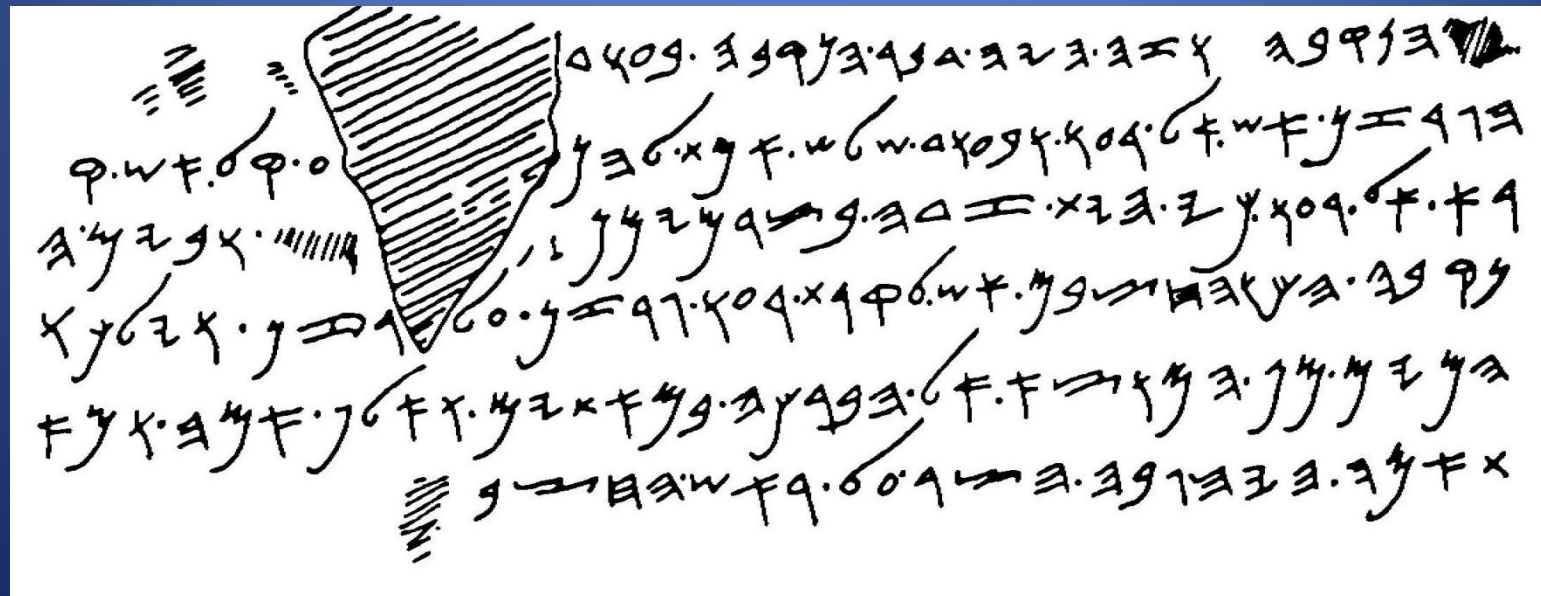

Amarna Letters

Cyrus Cylinder

A fragment of a clay tablet with cuneiform script. The fragment is irregularly shaped, with a curved right edge and a jagged left edge. The surface is light brown and shows signs of wear and damage. The cuneiform script is inscribed in several lines, though some characters are difficult to decipher due to the fragmentary nature of the piece. The script appears to be from an ancient Mesopotamian language, possibly Sumerian or Akkadian.

Dead Sea Scrolls

http://dss.collections.imj.org.il/dss_video

